The newest fashion trends, collectors' bracelets and creative fantasies have arrived. Take a look at the coming jewelry trends that will punctuate Spring/Summer 2018.

Plastic chic

Drops of clear water, crystal pendants, chiseled details, glass that has been blown and molded into a necklace – this season's accessories play a game of transparency that makes the light bounce off the curves of this crystalline jewelry.

VIP Access

The array of summer festivals made an appearance on the Spring/Summer catwalks. A Coachella-like sensibility stood out at Dior, who seamlessly transformed the essential access-all wristband into a summer must-have that all on-trend girls will be fighting for.

Fruit Basket

On the menu of the pretty health trend that played out on the runway's most fashionable earrings: a Dolce & Gabbana carrots, a bunch of Balenciaga grapes, Jacquemus lemons and Prada's signature bananas.

Animal Instinct

On the one hand we saw gentle butterflies at Bottega Veneta and comical zoo scenes at Prada. On the other, wild beasts at Chloe, tropical creatures at Marc Jacobs, and safari chic at Brandon Maxwell – celebrating all the different faces of the animal kingdom.

Neo Brooches

From strass details on a tartan Miu Miu jacket to a witch-inspired mirror brooch on a Celine suit, brooches have worked their magic on Spring/Summer 2018 runways. Not to forget Louis Vuitton, who created the perfect accessory balance with this metal brooch clasp.

This season's bold statements

With every Fashion Week comes myriad well-thought out eccentricities and Spring/Summer 2018 is no exception. While Natacha Ramsay-Levi took a liking for Chloé's technical innovation by sporting an array on rings resembling a bag chain, Tory Burch took pleasure in using the famous fidget spinner as a pendant on her string. With his vanguard approach, Alessandro Michele is making history this season this a UFO-style strass necklace which houses the chin and jaw area.

Layering lessons

If Giambattista Valli is inspiring thanks to his accumulation of architectural necklaces, the trend is all about ultra-thin ones. Think a series of chains just adorned with pendants for a California girl body jewelry effect.

Mix'n'matching

In the wake of the Fall/Winter 2017-2018 trend, earrings have found a new graphic-inspired balance. If last season's forms were similar, it's all about a radically different vibe this summer.

Tropicool

From Isabel Marant and Michael Kors' Hawaiian leis to Loewe's shell necklaces, there were plenty of exotic prints to dream about being on vacation under the palm trees next summer.

Supercharged shoulders

After the reign of the ear cuffs, the Spring/Summer 2018 runway saw a line-up of XXL length earrings that elegantly cascaded past the shoulders.

Natural pearls

Pearly beads were spotted at Simone Rocha, Céline, Valentino and Alexander McQueen. Only Y/Project dared to amplify the jewel for Fall/Winter 2017-2018 with Tahitian pearls.

Disco ball

From Chanel, to Dries Van Noten, Yves Saint Laurent, Stella McCartney, and Off-White, a wave of white crystals took over the runway to light up the shows. Isabel Marant also followed the trend, with earrings that will soon transform into a collector's item.

80's Sculptures

Y/Project played with size, while Yves Saint Laurent gave off Moroccan vibes, and Chloé celebrated everything body art.

Restyled Baroque

From neo-Victorian chandeliers, to baroque pearls, and ornate earrings, this line of period jewelry fits perfectly with today's modern trends.
